

MISCELLANEOUS.

We have rarely met, in the same compass, with more exquisitely polished versification, more real poetry, or more simple and unaffected piety, than are contained in the following stanzas. They appeared originally in the Cincinnati Literary Gazette, a paper which, though abounding in every thing that makes a paper really good, was discontinued for want of support.

Pilgrim, is thy journey drear?
Are its lights extinct for ever?
Sull suppress that rising fear,
God forsakes the righteous never!

Storms may gather o'er thy path,
All the ties of life may sever—
Still amid the fearful sea,
God forsakes the righteous never!

Pain may rack thy wasting frame,
Health desert the couch forever,
Faith still burns with deathless flame,
God forsakes the righteous never!

SOUTHERN SPIRIT.

Not many weeks ago, a very beautiful and accomplished southern lady from Georgia, went out shopping in Broadway. "Ma," said she to her matronly mother, "I must have a shawl—a very nice one—the best that New York can furnish."

"Well, my love," said the mother, "you shall have one—the weather is getting cold. This northern climate is trying—so get a shawl."

"But where shall I go?"
"My love, go to one of the most fashionable dry good stores in Broadway."
"Where is that Ma?"
"Alexander T. Stewart & Co. 257, Broadway, keep the best goods; they are never vulgarly cheap; the shopmen are handsome, polite, and well-bred; go to their store."

Our heroine sallied out one morning at ten o'clock. She sauntered into several stores—looking at shawls—they would not do—they were too cheap. At last she went into Stewart's, as we have understood; but of this point we are not absolutely certain, and if mistaken, Mr. Stewart will let us know.

"Show me some of your best shawls."
The shopman was as spry as Mercury. He flew up to the shelf—he flew back to the counter. The shawls, rich, glossy, large and beautiful, were lying before the lady. She took up one or two, and looked at them. She took off a glove from one of the loveliest hands, displaying emeralds and rubies on three taper fingers sufficient to enrapture even Fra Diavolo himself.

"Are these the best shawls you have?"
"Yes madam; they are the very best."
She tossed them over again. She took off another glove from another hand, which was even more beautiful than the first.

"Are you sure these are the best shawls you have?"
"They are indeed, Madam, the very best French shawls ever imported into New York by Arthur Tappan!"

The lady dropped the shawls on the floor—stood aghast with surprise—looked the astonished shopman full in the face—her bright brilliant eyes flashing fire enough to burn a city down.

"Arthur Tappan!" reiterated she, "did you say imported by Arthur Tappan?"
"I did, Madam."

"Take them away—take them away," said she, with ineffable disdain, "I would not by a shawl imported by Arthur Tappan, if it were to save me from perdition; away with them—away with them."

Huzza! for Southern spirit—Southern beauty—and Southern principles! The lady ought to have a hero for a husband.—N.Y. Herald.

A PEDLAR TAKEN IN.

We have heard a story of a Yankee pedlar, which we believe has never before been in print.

After the close of the American Revolution, a tin pedlar with his general assortment of nicknacks, arrived in a village in the district of Maine, and called at a house to dispose of his wares. After selling a few small articles to the lady of a house, who seemed to live in the midst of a blessing of children better covered with dirt than clothing, she declared her inability to purchase more, for the want of money.

"But, marm, hav'n't you any rags?"
None to sell, sir.

Well, marm, said he, about returning to his cart, you seem to have a plenty of little ones around you, won't you sell me one of them for some tin ware?

What will you give, sir?
Why I'd give you ten dollars for one of them.

In good tin ware?
O yes, marm, the best.

Well sir, it is a bargain.
She then handed one of the bare headed urchins to the pedlar, who, rather surprised that the offer was so readily accepted, yet feeling convinced that the mother would not part with the boy, placed him upon the seat of his cart and supplied the woman's demand for tin-pans, dippers, coffee pots, &c. until the sum of ten dollars was made up.

The pedlar yet feeling certain that the woman would rather make an effort to raise the sum than part with her boy—a sort of ware by the way in which he had no particular desire to deal) mounted his cart and seated himself by the side of the urchin, who seemed much tickled at the idea of taking a ride.

The reins were gathered up, and with an eye cast back at the house in the expectation of seeing the relenting mother coming forth to redeem her boy, his horse was started at a slow pace. After proceeding a quarter of a mile, and casting many a wondering look behind—the pedlar began to repent of his bargain—and turned his horse.

The lady had just finished ornamenting her dresser with the brilliant bargain she had made, when a rap at the door turned her attention.

Good woman, I think your boy is not quite large enough, I guess you had better take him again and let me have the ware.
No, no, sir, you have got him and you shall keep him. The bargain was a fair one, and you may off with Dick as soon as you please.

Surprised at the woman's indifference about her boy,—why marm, how can you think of parting with so young a child to an utter stranger who you do not know?
Oh sir, we should like to sell off all our town paupers for ten dollars a head!

Dick was dropped at the door; the whip cracked, the wheels and ware rattled, and the pedlar measured the ground at a much quicker pace than before—never after forgetting his pauper speculation.—Portsmouth Journal.

DYSPEPSIA

LIVER COMPLAINTS.

THE PATENT VEGETABLE MEDICINE, STOMACHIC ET HEPATICE, formed by chymical analysis and synthesis of several proximate vegetable principles, are universally acknowledged to have totally eclipsed the pretensions of every other remedy, and superceded the necessity of every other mode of treatment wherever the above diseases are found to exist, as well as in the enlargement of the Spleen and in Jaundice.

Among the symptoms of Dyspepsia and Liver complaints, are flatulency, nausea or burning in the stomach, melancholy, irritability, disagreeable taste in the mouth, great irregularity of appetite, which is sometimes voracious, and at other times greatly deficient; thirst, acid breath, nausea, weakness of the stomach, acid eructations, palpitation, drowsiness, irregularity of the bowels, pressure on the stomach after meals, pain in the head, dizziness or vertigo, confusion of mind, attended with loss of memory, a gnawing in the stomach when empty, chilliness, affection of sight and hearing, pain and weakness in the back, languor, disturbed sleep, cold feet and hands, tremor, uneasiness in the throat, cough, pain in the side or breast, &c.

DR. PETERS'

Vegetable Anti-Bilious Pills.

Are the cheapest and most approved Family Medicine ever offered to the Public. They are extremely mild in their operation, neither causing sickness of the stomach, nor any unpleasant sensation in the system, it is too frequently the result from medicine given to act upon the bowels. They act specifically upon the Liver, when in a torpid condition, carrying off a large quantity of bile, through the influence of the excretory function, which, if suffered to remain in the system, would produce either Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Bilious Fever, Fever and Ague, or some other grievous bodily affliction. In all cases of torpor of the bowels, they act like a charm. In recent cases of Dyspepsia, they are a certain cure. Many persons who were subject to violent attacks of sick head-ache, have been much benefited, and several perfectly cured in a few weeks by their use. They are highly recommended as a preventative and cure of Bilious complaints. Persons who are subject to that distressing complaint, sea-sickness, by taking a portion or two of them a few days previous to embarking on board the vessel, will be almost certain to escape it. Females can use them at all periods, without incurring any risk. Their virtues will remain unimpaired for years in any climate. A family should be without these Pills; a portion of them, taken occasionally, would be the means of preventing much suffering from sickness. It is from neglect of keeping to a regular peristaltic action of the stomach and bowels, thus suffering to be absorbed and mingled with the blood, unassimilated fluids, that most diseases are produced. Dr. P. feels confident that no person who gives these Pills a fair trial, will ever feel willing to be without them. The testimony of thousands speaking in the highest terms of their efficacy, might be added, but the very high reputation Dr. P. has acquired as the inventor of the "Patent Vegetable Medicine: Stomachic et Hepatic," for the cure of Dyspepsia and Liver complaints, is thought a sufficient guarantee for those wishing to make a trial of their virtues. They contain not a particle of Mercury, or any ingredient that does not act in harmony with health and oppose disease.

Dr. P. having been educated under the most eminent American and European Medical professors, and practiced his profession many years in the South, where diseases of the most obstinate character prevail, considers himself well qualified to judge on the nature of diseases incident to warm climates.

Prepared by JOSEPH PRIESTLY PETERS, M. D. P. B. C. P. M. at his Institution for the cure of obstinate Diseases, by means of vegetable remedies, No. 129 Liberty-street, New York, inventor and sole proprietor. Each box contains forty Pills. Price 50 CENTS.

These invaluable Medicines are sold in Charlotte by Smith & Williams; in Concord by P. B. Barringer, and in Salisbury by John Murphy, where numerous certificates of their efficacy can be seen.
